Czechoslovakia-Germany Situation New Peace Threat

New European Crisis Develops On Czech Border

Killing Of Two German Farmers In Czechoslovakia Brings Serious Situation

BORDER ON VIRTUAL WAR-TIME FOOTING

Germany Serves Warning To Prague Government On Responsibility

(International News Service)

Killing of two German farmers in Czechoslovakia, coupled with troop movements on both sides of the Czech-German frontier, today brought about a European crisis forebodingly parallel to that preceding the German seizure of Austria.

Pragmatic developments were: PRAGUE—Western borders of Czechoslovakia were placed on a virtual war footing. Four classes of army reservists were called up. All frontier fortifications were manned. "We are not afraid of the future," said President Benes.

The two Germans killed at Eger, said a Czech official bulletin, tried to run through a police blockade. Tension was high on the eve of municipal elections which will test the political strength of the 3,500,000 Czech-Germans.

BERLIN—Germany through its controlled press, warned that the Prague government will be held fully responsible for all future developments. The British ambassador made his second call at the foreign office in 24 hours and demanded to know the meaning of reported German troop concentrations on the Czech border.

LONDON—A South African news agency reported—minus confirmation in other quarters—that 30 persons were killed in futile Sudeten uprisings in 12 Czech villages. The belief prevailed in official circles that German troops were being prepared for a quick invasion of Czechoslovakia in the event of serious clashes between Czechs and Sudetens in tomorrow's elections.

So grave was the situation that Viscount Halifax, British foreign secretary, rushed back to London from the country for conferences. Coinciding with the Czech crisis was the rift between France and Italy, with the latter demanding that the French frontier be closed to the flow of arms and ammunition towards government Spain.

Situation Gravely Acute Is View Of British In Czechoslovakian Dispute

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, May 21.—Rising tension between Nazi Germany and Czechoslovakia today brought Europe to the gravest crisis it has faced since Chancellor Hitler's Nazi Legions marched into Austria.

In British official quarters the situation was described as "gravely acute."

Despite German assurances that troop movements in the Reich were "merely routine," the belief prevailed in London official circles that troops were being massed for a quick invasion of Czechoslovakia in the event of serious clashes between Czechs and Sudetens in tomorrow's elections.

No Pre-Arranged Plan
British intelligence advisers did not believe that there is any pre-arranged German plan for a definite march across the Czech border this week end. Rather, the Reich's military activities were regarded as preparation enabling Germany to take advantage of any incident which might be considered serious enough to warrant quick action.

Fears were felt here lest the al-

Senate Committee Radically Revises Federal Relief Bill

By ARTHUR HACHTEN

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Turning the administration's relief bill from its smooth-sailing course into stormy weather, a senate appropriations subcommittee today reported to its full committee a radically revised measure, lifting the total for the spend-land program about $200,000,000 to a grand total of $3,354,000,000.

While the broad power voted by the house for President Roosevelt to control the administration's support effort to bring back prosperity was retained, these far-reaching amendments were adopted:

1. Providing $200,000,000 for distribution to cotton, wheat and corn farmers as a token toward giving them parity prices for their crops and to cushion until senators and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace have predicted will be a desperate situation in the farm belt next fall and winter.
2. Stipulating that if congress passes a wage-hour bill for private (Continued On Page Two)

Great Britain And France Will Stand Together

Resolved Not To Permit In Czechoslovakia Duplication Of Austrian Move

NO OFFICIAL MOVES AS YET REPORTED

By ALFRED TYRKAUER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, May 21.—France and Great Britain today were represented as "absolutely resolved" not to permit in Czechoslovakia a duplication of the German invasion of Austria.

The French government, it was said, was "gravely concerned" over tension between Germany and Czechoslovakia, and it was realized here that the situation was extremely dangerous.

France's main hope was that the firm attitude of Britain, Russia and France herself, who declared that dismemberment of Czechoslovakia would not be tolerated, might prevent the outbreak of a new European war.

Stands By Alliance
"Unofficial," but well-informed sources said a number of German reserve officers had been called to the colors in Bavaria and Austria.

A large number of Nazi Storm Troopers, it was also said, were gathering near the Czech frontier. So far there has been no official declaration in the light of today's Czech-German developments. But France's statement that she stands by her alliance with Czechoslovakia, which calls for French military action in the event Czechoslovakia is invaded still holds good.

Moreover, France is mindful of the British statement which followed the recent sealing of Anglo-French military ties, that Britain, while unwilling to plan Czech defense in advance, will "remember her obligations to France."

Body Of Famous Composer Moved To Maine Grave

Residents Of Sewickley Aroused By Removing Of Body Of Ethelbert Nevin

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, May 21.—Far from the hills which he cherished in so many of his compositions, the body of Ethelbert Nevin, brilliant composer who wrote the music for "The Rose Tree," was speedily taken to a new resting place at Blue Hill, Maine.

And over the empty grave in the cemetery at suburban Sewickley a bitter controversy raged over the action of Nevin's widow in disintering his body and removing it to a country that was strange to the composer himself.

Workers, swiftly and silently disintered the body yesterday afternoon to warm sunlight slanted over the hills and river Nevin had immortalized in song. He died 37 years ago at the age of 39.

At Blue Hill, it was reported, the widow is preparing a shrine for the famous composer. But residents of Sewickley, who know and mourned Nevin were aroused by her action. He was buried near where he was born in Edgewood, November 5, 1862. He spent the childhood roaming the hills in whose bosom he was interred.

Oregon Primary Result Is Close; New Deal Trails

(International News Service)

PORTLAND, Ore., May 21.—With New Deal prestige and CIO sponsorship at stake, Henry L. Hess, champion of the administration, dropped steadily behind today in a voting Democratic battle for the gubernatorial nomination as Governor Charles L. Marshall, favored by the CIO, took the lead.

Hess shot to the fore early in the counting under stimulation of a substantial lead in Multnomah county and Portland's metropolitan area. This lead was sharply reduced and then wiped out as upstate counties began polling in pro-Martin votes in the small hours this morning.

Administration Supporter Is Also Behind In Race For Senate Nomination

(International News Service)

PORTLAND, Ore., May 21.—When the county commissioners announced they had accepted the resignation of Mr. Hartland, and had notified Governor George H. Earle that a vacancy existed, the news was a surprise. The resignation will appear for the balance of the term. In the meantime no taxes can be paid in until a new treasurer is appointed.

Before being accepted before Alexander Martin, Mr. Hartland made a confession to District Attorney John G. Lamore in which he admitted his guilt. The district attorney, however, announced previously that he would not prosecute. Mr. Hartland, former chief deputy, repudiated a previous confession and gave the district attorney details of the peculations. Mr. Lamore stated.

Latest Figures

Latest tabulation of incomplete returns from 1,163 precincts out of 1,821 in the state gave Martin 29,367, Hess 29,337.

Hess, who held his lead in Multnomah county, where heavy support from the CIO industrial, county and Oregon commonwealth federation proved a factor in his favor.

Counting a possible 4,000 majority in Multnomah for Hess, leaders in the Martin campaign were confident the upstate vote would offset this disadvantage.

Another New Dealer ran behind in the Democratic race for United States senator. Carl C. Donahue, former Roosevelt follower, was trailing William Mahoney, former mayor of Klamath Falls, who had the backing of the Townsend forces, by a count of 7,956 to 13,315.

In the Republican gubernatorial primaries, Charles A. Sprague, Salem publisher, was far ahead. With 13,963 votes from 145 precincts, he led Sam Brown, with 4,081; Henry Hazen with 1,421; and Clarence Wagner with 2,402. For senator, Rufus Holman threatened to snow under Robert Stanfield. The vote stood: Holman 18,394; Stanfield, 1,954.

Charge Is Made Against Hartland For $12,000 Fund Embezzlement

DECLARES THAT HE REPLACED SHORTAGE

Pleads Guilty To Charge And Is Held Under $7,500 Bond For June Court

(International News Service)

Charged with the embezzlement of $12,000 of county funds, County Treasurer Joseph H. Hartland pleaded guilty before Alexander Martin, L. Claude Mantz, late Friday night and was held for the June term of criminal court in $7,500 bail. Later he resigned his commission as county treasurer and a meeting of the county commissioners with District Attorney John G. Lamore and County Controller Frank W. Hill was under way today to take whatever steps were necessary to fill the vacancy.

At noon the county commissioners announced they had accepted the resignation of Mr. Hartland, and had notified Governor George H. Earle that a vacancy existed. The resignation will appear for the balance of the term. In the meantime no taxes can be paid in until a new treasurer is appointed.

Before being accepted before Alexander Martin, Mr. Hartland made a confession to District Attorney John G. Lamore in which he admitted his guilt. The district attorney, however, announced previously that he would not prosecute. Mr. Hartland, former chief deputy, repudiated a previous confession and gave the district attorney details of the peculations. Mr. Lamore stated.

Two Day Investigation

The admission of Mr. Hartland came as the result of a two-day investigation by Mr. Lamore and County Controller Frank W. Hill. On Thursday the accountants of Wolf and company, who have been auditing the books of the county treasurer, discovered a bank deposit of $7,000 on April 26, 1938, for which there appeared to be no reason.

It was found that the deposit was made in $20 bills, 350 of them. Acting under his authority as county controller, Mr. Hill called Mr. Hartland in and in the investigation were Mr. Lamore, the auditor and the controller's solicitor, Ralph Cooper. Miss Bertha P. Patterson was also called in.

The investigation lasted all Thursday afternoon and to continual questioning Mr. Hartland said the money was received in the regular course of business. He showed no outline to verify it, nor could he show distribution of the money which had been deposited in the school and road account, kept in the Lawrence Savings & Trust company. It is announced.

For a time it seemed that Hartland might be confined in the county jail for "refusal to divulge information" and under this act the controller can commit an official without bail. A recess was finally taken until Friday morning and again the grilling started.

Miss Patterson Confesses
The full investigation brought to light new irregularities in the question of holding Hartland was still in the air. A noon recess was taken in the meantime Miss Bertha P. Patterson had not appeared at the morning session, sending word that she was sick and under the care of a nurse.

Sometime in the early afternoon Miss Patterson presented herself in the office of District Attorney Lamore and announced she was ready to tell the facts in the affair and in the next two hours poured out a confession. All of the revelations were made public today by Lamore. Her confession, which was signed in Lamore's office, recites that in (Continued On Page Two)

REPORT CHICKENS KILLED BY HAIL

One barn is flat on the ground, silos are ruined, houses are damaged and acres of trees are uprooted in North Beaver township today as the result of a terrific wind, hail and rain storm which swathed a path through the Sprague district at about 4:30 o'clock Friday afternoon.

Residents of the Mt. Jackson road state that the near disaster, which caused so much devastation was like nothing ever seen in that district before. It came so suddenly that no one had time to get their barnyard loads under shelter and consequently many young birds were killed by the hail.

Barn Is Levelled

On the farm of Charles F. Wallace, on the Mt. Jackson hill, a large 20 by 40-foot barn was twisted off its foundation and blown flat, crushing a small coupe owned by the daughter of the family, Miss Josephine Wallace, and killing a few chickens that were inside.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace were in town at the time and returning home found the barn down. They had fire insurance but nothing to cover wind damage. Several cherry trees on the property were uprooted.

Chickens Killed

Fifteen young chickens on the W. C. Powers property next door were killed by hail; trees were torn apart, and gardens ruined. Similar damage was done on a corn or more farm places. A number of small buildings, chicken coops, garages etc. were blown over throughout the district, others lost their roofs.

A garage door on the C. H. Gary property was torn nearly off the hinges. A window of the W. W. Patterson home was shattered to pieces.

Two Silos Down

Some of the most serious damage was done, it is reported, on the R. K. Chambers farm. The master brought two silos to the ground. Another farmer reports that the roof of his barn was ripped off. There was considerable damage to trees on the L. E. Swisher property. A large tree fell over the Otto Krumholz house doing some damage.

Electric current was affected for awhile. Most of the electric clocks stopped at 4:30 p.m. The News is told.

Says Proposal For Processing Exemptions For Agricultural Products Too Extensive

WAGE-HOUR BILL IN HOUSE MONDAY

By WILLIAM S. NEAL, Washington News Service Staff

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Announced by a drive to exempt processing of all agricultural products from the wage-hour bill, chairman Mary T. Norton (D) of the house labor committee, today announced that she will fight all exemptions.

With the measure, which would set an immediate 40-hour minimum weekly wage and a maximum 44-hour work week for industrial employees, scheduled to be called up in the house on Monday, its passage was generally expected.

Amendment Draws Fire The amendment which drew the fire of Mrs. Norton is being proposed by Rep. Coffee (D) of Nebraska, on behalf of the National Grange and other farm organizations. It was written into the ill-fated wage-hour bill in the special session.

Under the amendment, industries engaged in producing, processing, distributing or handling of dairy products, poultry, livestock or other agricultural products of seasonal or perishable nature, would be exempt from the maximum hour provisions.

The amendment is so far-reaching, said Mrs. Norton, "that it would even extend to the so-called exempt industries the manufacture of automobiles and to cotton used in making tires. It strikes at the heart of the bill."

Leaders in the battle for the legislation set passage by Tuesday night as their goal. They want to hasten the bill to the senate to avoid side-tracking in a rush for adjournment.

NEW EUROPEAN CRISIS DEVELOPS ON CZECH BORDER

alleged in Berlin and Rome, are being used as stepping stones for the shipment of Soviet munitions to Barcelona and Valencia.

Konrad Henlein, leader of the Sudeten Germans, and Reichsführer Hitler were both in Munich where they reportedly conferred.

The London Standard said Hitler plans to have Henlein proclaim autonomy for the Sudeten after the elections abolishing the frontiers between German-Czechoslovakia and the Reich.

Troops Man Border Berlin, May 21.—Czechoslovakian troops manned border fortifications and thousands of Reservists were called up today as tension between Nazi Germany and its small, but powerful, democratic neighbor mounted by the hour.

The alleged killing of two Sudeten German farmers by Czech soldiers at Eger near Franzensbad sent the Nazi Press into a fury of indignation. Columns of black type in all Berlin newspapers warned that the Prague government "will be held fully responsible for all future developments and consequences."

The warnings were grimly reminiscent of those delivered to the Schuschnigg government in Austria immediately before Reichsführer Adolf Hitler marched into Vienna a little over two months ago.

From various frontier points there continued to flow into Berlin a ceaseless stream of rumors that German officials persisted in denying any extraordinary moves. But it was learned on good authority that reserve officers in the Berlin district at least had been called up for indefinite maneuvers.

Information received from reliable sources made clear that unrest and tension are rife throughout Czechoslovakia. Tomorrow's municipal elections in Prague and numerous small towns and villages have brought the complex minority problem to a head, but Nazi officials insist that "sensational events" are not imminent.

On the press takes an opposite view was clearly shown by the contents of a special edition of the Berlin newspaper "Zweifelhafte," one of the more conservative organs of the German press.

On War Footing Prague, May 21.—The western frontiers of Czechoslovakia, caught between the pincers of Germany and Austria, were placed upon a virtual war footing today.

An atmosphere of grave tension prevailed following the killing of two Sudeten Germans by Czechoslovakian police near Eger aggravated by charges and counter-charges of deliberate provocation hurled against one another by Czech and German spokesmen.

Reservists were called up in Czechoslovakia and the check border fortifications were manned to the hilt. But officials of this hard-pressed central European democracy hemmed in by dictatorship nations pledged themselves to pursue a peaceful course.

Tension, however, was particularly noticeable all along the border between Czechoslovakia and Austria. A pall of fear and unrest hung over the town of Bruno, only a few miles from the frontier. At Reichenberg and other towns in the Sudeten area military guards were posted at all public buildings and the roads were closed with reinforcements being rushed to border stations.

This day, which may decide the fate of Czechoslovakia, found President Eduard Benes at Tabor in Southern Bohemia. To a gathering of supporters, he shouted: "We are not afraid of the future."

Coupled with this strong declaration, however, was an expression of hope that war will be avoided. He urged all Czechoslovakians to act in a conciliatory manner and take no action during municipal elections scheduled for tomorrow that might be calculated to cause disorders.

leged shooting of two German Reservists by Czech troops, as reported by the German official news agency might be regarded as such an incident.

Apprehensions grew, at the same time, that Hitler may consider the time is now ripe to deliver a parting shot against Czechoslovakia in view of France's preoccupation with Italy over the Spanish civil war and Britain's known unwillingness and unpreparedness to resort to war over events in Central Europe.

May Not Want Peace Diplomatic reports received here of alleged organized Nazi terrorism in the Sudeten section of Czechoslovakia indicate Germany may not want a peaceful compromise settlement with the Czechs.

On the other hand, London believes, Germany wants to force a break-up of Czechoslovakia in order to split the Soviet-Czech alliance and isolate the Soviet Union.

Meanwhile, it was learned, Moscow is hastily bringing pressure on France to engage in joint action in the event Germany marches into Czechoslovakia.

The British government is desperately striving to exercise a restraining influence all around, and is now inclined to favor full autonomy for the Sudeten Germans.

London is coming to this attitude on the ground that Czechoslovakia is likely to lose far more if Hitler's troops invade her—perhaps even be wiped out altogether or become the battle field for a European war than she would be according to the Sudeten demands.

London, May 21.—Gravely concerned by the rising tension between Czechoslovakia and Nazi Germany, Viscount Halifax, British foreign secretary, cut short a week end at Oxford today and rushed back to London.

He went into immediate conference with his aides at the foreign office. It was generally felt Europe is facing the gravest crisis it has known since Reichsführer Adolf Hitler's forces marched to Austria.

Three New Castle Vets May Go To Gettysburg

By ARTHUR C. WIMER, Special Washington Correspondent, New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 21.—Uncle Sam is extending invitations to three Civil War veterans of New Castle to a week's visit at Gettysburg, all expenses paid.

These invitations are engraved and bear the golden seal of the White House. They are going to approximately 8000 living Civil War veterans, both Union and Confederate, 600 of whom have Pennsylvania addresses. The New Castle men to whom invitations have been addressed are:

James Hasson, 818 Carson street; John B. Rodgers, 484 Franklin avenue; and Adam Bible, R. D. 7. On the invitation list also is Jacob J. Proburg of North Canal street, Sharpsburg.

Congress appropriated $1,000,000 with which to entertain the veterans at the 75th anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg, June 29 to July 6, this year. All transportation as well as board and lodging costs will be paid for the 8000 old veterans. In addition, the expenses of an attendant for each veteran will be paid by Uncle Sam.

1936 she found some "longages" in the accounts, errors which occurred occasionally in tax accounts. This money she turned over to Mr. Hartland. Later she discovered that $12,000 had been taken from the county tax refunds made to the county by the state.

Hartland approached her, she said, and asked her if there was any "extra" money that could be gotten. Later he told her that he would give her 10 per cent of any extra money she could find, she said.

"I wasn't interested in getting that kind of money," said Miss Patterson. "I was frightened at the shortage and I did not want to share it with him. I was afraid he would find out."

In the confession, Miss Patterson said that the night Mr. Hartland was called in by the school board to explain some shortages, he got in touch with her and asked her how much money she had. She told him $610 which she turned over to him. From her statement as to her total out of the funds, this would leave her less than $500 out of it all.

She further states in the confession that shortly after that she met with Mr. and Mrs. Hartland in an attempt to find some explanation to be given. She said that she finally decided to take the full responsibility for the shortages in an endeavor to shield members of the Hartland family. She said she thought that if she walked in and pleaded guilty, the whole matter would be ended.

With the confession of Miss Patterson in his hands, District Attorney Lamoree then had Mr. Hartland brought in to his office late in the afternoon.

For a time he refused to answer questions but finally admitted that in January, 1937, he had taken $12,000 from the gasoline fund to invest in the stock market, the district attorney said. He used funds of the school and road account to balance the gasoline fund but on April 26, 1938, he liquidated some stock holdings in Pittsburgh for $7000 and put this into the bank account, according to Mr. Lamoree.

In his confession, Mr. Hartland says that the general, the poor and the gasoline funds balance, but that he is still short in the school and road funds. He estimates that it is yet between $6000 and $8000. He told the district attorney that he would make every effort to get the money back, and that he would cooperate with the accountants in the audit, showing them where the shortages could be found.

Pleads Guilty. An information was then drawn in the district attorney's office which was signed by County Detective Paul A. Welsh. Hartland is charged with embezzlement and fraudulent records. Mr. Welsh and State Officer Walter Gibbons took him to Alderman Mantz's office and Hartland pleaded guilty at 6:30 P. M. Friday night. He secured the $7500 bail necessary and was released from custody.

Immediately when it was learned of the confession and plea of guilt, the vault and safe of the county treasurer's office were sealed and a deputy sheriff put in there to stand guard all night.

The confession of both Hartland and Miss Patterson climaxed the work of the audit. The final shortage cannot be determined for some time yet as the books of the two and a half years of his service must be audited thoroughly to ascertain definitely just what the shortage is.

Some Beverage Shortage. Hartland said in his confession that he had shorted the beverage license funds some when he was issuing beer licenses. It has also been discovered that some discrepancies exist in the dog license fund. These were brought about by changing the record of the dogs. A female dog license costs $2.10, a male license $1.10. Some shortages were caused by changing the sex of the female dogs to that of males, permitting a one dollar cut to be taken.

It is thought that the general county poor funds will be shown to be correct. These accounts have been audited by County Controller Frank W. Hill every month. The shortages occurred in the school and road fund and this fund Hartland contended was not to be audited by Hill as the money was the property of the school districts of the county. Hill therefore never had a chance to see whether or not the accounts were right and he could not verify the returns to the school districts.

In the meantime a search is being made for the record of a check for $31,755.95 which was sent in to the county in October, 1936. The check was cashed but it is not yet developed what was done with the money.

The state treasurer, F. Clair Ross, was asked today by District Attorney John G. Lamoree to check the matter and to ascertain where it was cashed and when. This is being done.

In the office of Alderman Mantz, Mr. Hartland said that he would cooperate fully in digging out the accountants every help he could. He also said he would make every effort to restore the money that was found to be short.

With the knowledge of the confession the work of the accountants will be made less difficult, it is thought, and the work of auditing took on new impetus this morning.

Back To Fired Employee. Back of the whole disclosure which was made late Friday lies the story of the expose. Some months ago a young lady who worked in the county treasurer's office discovered what she thought to be an error in the Wickliff Youngstown and Mrs. Lavina Howe of Lyndal street. Services will be conducted from the White funeral home in Warren, O., Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial is to be in a Warren cemetery.

Funeral of Mrs. Linn. Funeral services for the late Mrs. Linn, Sr. of Pottsville, Pa., were conducted at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon at the O'Brien funeral home in New Castle, with Rev. Richard O'Brien, pastor of the Peoples Mission, officiating.

The pallbearers were Thomas Linn, Kenneth Fowler, Howard Linn, Albert B. Bock, James Thompson and George Bock.

Interment was made in Oak Park cemetery.

William Harper. William Harper, aged 70 years, died at the home of Edward Harper in Darlington at 7 o'clock Friday evening. He had been ill for a short time.

Mr. Harper had lived in Darlington for the past 30 years. He was preceded in death by his wife, Mary, who died in 1925. Surviving are his two daughters, Mrs. Mary Brown of New Castle, Mrs. Elizabeth Ann of Westport, and his son, John Harper, of Darlington. Mr. Harper was a member of the Methodist church.

ENGLAND RUSHES PREPARATION

IT MUST be said for Prime Minister Chamberlain, who has given renewed emphasis to the element of realism in British diplomacy, that he is realistic in his recognition of the uncertainties of the future and the dangers of living among neighbors who are inclined to belligerency.

Mr. Chamberlain, through policies that rankle in the proud breast of the average Briton, is trying to get along in peace with chaps who talk loudly and frequently of their military prowess and their determination to resent aggressively a hostile act or even a hostile look or thought.

Meanwhile, Great Britain is bending every effort to prepare for the future. The staggering budget, accepted so philosophically by the English people, although it means a back-breaking burden of taxation for every class of citizens, is one evidence of the government's realistic approach to its problems. Another is the reorganization of the cabinet.

The importance which Great Britain attaches to the utmost speed in the development of its air force is reflected dramatically in the retirement of Viscount Swinton, secretary for air, and the appointment of Sir Kingsley Wood in his place.

With feverish energy and at tremendous sacrifices, England is preparing for the uncertain future. The fact that England will be found prepared is certain to minimize the possibilities of tragic eventualities.

FRUITS, NUTS AND BERRIES

As part of the wild life conservation program in Wisconsin the state is setting out 1,000,000 nut and fruit bearing trees, vines and shrubs this spring and will plant 2,000,000 more in the autumn. In addition, it is planting 600,000 hardwoods. The purpose is to provide shade along trout streams and natural food and cover for birds and animals.

The state conservation department is experimenting with more than 100 nut and berry plants, seeking the ones best adapted for certain places and purposes.

There is a hint in this work for the private citizen with a yard or a few acres of his own. If he wants more birds around the place to help keep down insect pests, and for the enjoyment of their songs and interesting ways, he can plant berry-bearing shrubs and fruit trees. Quite apart from their usefulness, such plants will reward the planter with their beauty and variety.

A RECORD DESPITE HANDICAPS

A Richhill township (Greene county) girl has completed her grade school work and qualified for high school entrance, after seven years of perfect school attendance. But what is more, she got to school daily by walking a mile and a half, and covering the same distance to get home.

Some will say that this was as it should have been, and that modern pupils who ride to school in buses are too much pampered.

A comparison of the achievements of pupils in modern schools, with transportation provided, and those of pupils in the old days when walking one, two or three miles each way was the rule, would be of considerable interest, and would probably answer the argument that children were better off in the days when they had to take these long walks before they reached school. Some active schoolman, if he can find a little spare time, might confer a real benefit if he would dig out the old records and make a somewhat detailed comparison.

At any rate, few children who walk such long distances to school, can have such fine attendance records.

ENOUGH PROPAGANDA NOW

The House Naval Affairs Committee did well to shelve the proposal for a government radio station to broadcast programs to South and Central America. It is easy to sympathize with those who believe something should be done to counteract the flood of foreign propaganda that is being sent over the Atlantic air waves. But before rushing headlong into this competition it is wise to consider all the implications and complications.

European broadcasts to our southern neighbors not only contain laudations of the rule of dictators, but serious reflections, at times, on our own system of government. It is contended that we should combat these misrepresentations and point out the injurious effects of totalitarian rule on liberty-loving peoples.

In those foreign countries radio is owned and operated by governments. In the United States private radio facilities have been offered to the government free of charge.

The House bill called for an initial appropriation of $750,000 and $100,000 a year for upkeep. A Senate bill, still pending, would allow $3,000,000 for a government radio station in California. But the cost is not the main objection to this proposal.

Entrance of the federal government into this field arouses apprehensions, not ill-founded, of a new and still more powerful agency of propaganda which in this not be confined to international broadcasts.

The word "propaganda" once connoting a perfectly legitimate activity, has come to possess a sinister meaning. Propaganda is one of the most insidious instruments employed by foreign dictators to keep themselves in power. An administration engaging in the propaganda business by radio to influence opinion in other lands might easily be tempted to utilize the same agency to create political capital for itself at home.

Some months ago a broadcast series, "America Speaks," was directed to the people of Great Britain. The sponsors were singularly unhappy in their choice of American representatives—or mis-representatives.

It is easy to imagine what the administration could do with a broadcasting station all its own. The Senate Committee should follow the example of the House Committee and squelch this dangerous proposal.

Snaking the rich may give envy sweet revenge, but did you ever see it change a soft-handed prominent citizen?

Halle Selassie achieved a moral victory through his appearance before the League of Nations, which does not alter the fact that Ethiopia continues in the possession of the invaders.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

CITIZENSHIP TRAINED IN HOME
CITIZENSHIP, good or bad, begins in the home. And for it in our children we parents are primarily responsible. The school is doing a good job at teaching citizenship there, but it could do much better if we parents did as well, if we gave teachers better citizens to begin with.

The basic attitudes and habits of citizenship in our children have been pretty well established before they enter school. Even while our children are at school, these basic attitudes and habits are more dependent on the home than on the school. A grave problem of the school, indeed, is so to cultivate citizenship there that it will continue to function after the child leaves the school grounds each day or graduates, finally, from school. Not nearly all, alas, who are good citizens in their home or community, even while attending school.

Among the ABC's of citizenship are regard for the rights of others, respect for authority, and readiness to share and bear responsibility among those with whom one mixes, especially at home and in the home neighborhood. These virtues presuppose inculcating some basic impositions early in the child, care of property, respect for things that belong to others, self-reliance and sharing in the common chores and duties about the home.

We educate the child in good citizenship at home as we train him early in the unambiguous meaning of NO rarely heard, train him from the time that he begins to toddle that there are a few things he must not have and a few things he must not do, as we train him to be very careful, within reason, of his playthings and of the furniture; train him neither to mar nor destroy things belonging to others nor to use them without permission of the owner. We see that he gets discomfort from violating these principles and comfort from observing them.

Learning Responsibility
We let him learn responsibility for taking care of himself and his own possessions as soon as he is able, and help him find satisfaction in so doing. We let him carry on his own conversation. We let him answer the questions meant for him. We let him have as many choices and decisions as his protection and the rights of others warrant.

We train him in responsibility for bringing himself in from play, sending himself regularly to bed, preparing himself for meals, and the like, in accordance with clearly established standards. Gradually he is assigned one, and later a few more, simple tasks to be done every day; also allowed to do some things which don't seem to be drudgery. He learns to handle money, and to get along agreeably with his playmates. He learns to co-operate and is liked by other children and adults in the neighborhood. All these things he learns best in a home of love and sympathy and understanding, where he feels secure, with parents who themselves are good citizens. Such are favorable beginnings of good citizenship.

All Of Us

"WE'LL NEVER CHANGE"
Last night a lad and a lass, looking down the glamorous lane of the years, agreed and said as if nothing could ever change their dear belief: "We'll never change. We'll always be like this, always the same toward one another. Other people may change, but WE will not."

Silly youth and silly maiden, unless you change your love will fade away. Don't you know that everything beautiful in this world must change if it would live? All that is lovely around you is the fruit of change. Nothing that pierces your heart with charm and sweet agony but is the beloved child of change. If the gentle breeze were to affect it is because it changes. If you love great music it is because it moves grandly on. The musicians stay; their music comes and goes. If you have a painting in your home that appeals to you now as deeply as it appealed ten years ago, you love it because it has CHANGED. It is not the picture you saw in 1919; its meaning has deepened it is greater than it used to be, and it is great only because it changes as YOU change.

All that is beloved that has become a friend to you? Its leaves you see this day are not the leaves you saw last year. Even the breeze that sweeps through the great branches is another breeze than any you felt before. The flowers are other flowers.

You may not go back to yesterday. You may not remain even in today. You long to stand as still as any carven statue; you would seize the charming moment and keep it forever. "Verwilt doch, du bist so schön." Stay, moment, thou art so fair. But if it stays, it withers, it cloy, it ceases to be the beauty that you love.

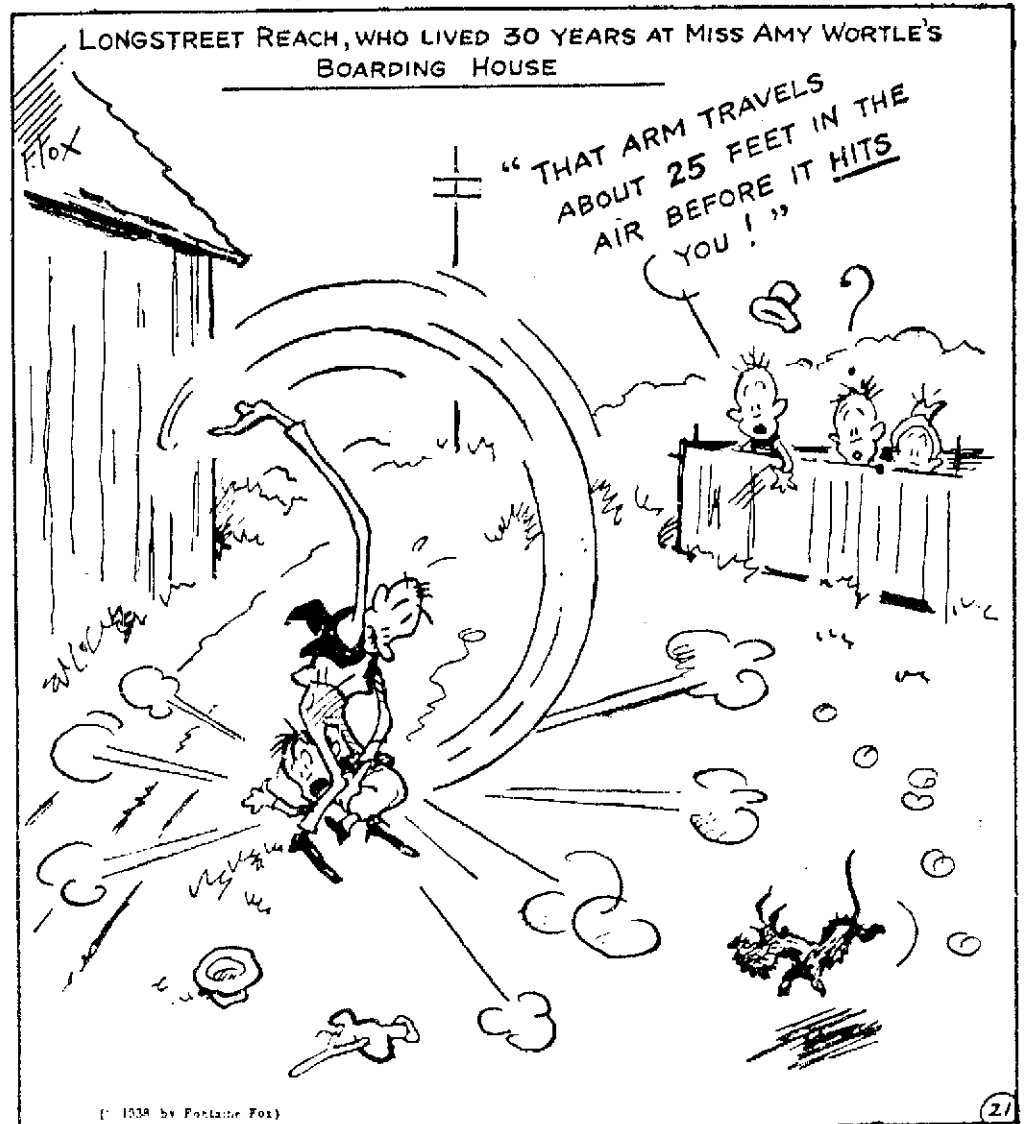

And even you, if you would be beloved must change with the changing years. For she will change and, changing, she could not love you tomorrow as she loves you today unless you, too, have changed. You will change because you cannot help it. You will grow stronger, grow wiser, grow more understanding. Today is the blossom. Tomorrow is the fruit.

You will change, and she will change, and even your love must change with the years if it would live—for nothing lasts in all this changing world unless it changes, too.

HINTS and DINTS

Sun sets tonight 7:14; sun rises tomorrow 4:39.

When a local man saw a truck labeled "explosives" driven by a woman, he said it was explosives all right. Boom!

One thing about one dog barking another dog is that the barking is not heard enough.

Maybe it is because of the saying that a fellow without enemies doesn't amount to much that some folks have made such a fine collection.

A good thing to do would be to make the Democrats stay in office until they have paid the debts they made. But that will not happen, if there is anything in the recent election in Pennsylvania.

No doubt a few millions more will be asked for in Washington to help the Dems out in the fall election in Pennsylvania.

Sixty per cent of the children examined in St. Louis by school doctors have physical defects. Not enough attention is being paid in this country to young children, when it is so easy to do so. We need strong healthy people in this country now more than ever.

When the members of congress get the idea that they want to go home they pass most any foolish law before them. They think planning their corn is more important than passing laws that make it bad for the people of this country.

When a fellow reaches middle age and has one wild out left, he's bound to ruin his health if he tries to sow it.

The sad part is that other nations suffer because of poverty while we suffer because we are rich in everything but good sense.

Shape indicates less than character. Why did scientists choose the ape as our ancestor when the pig has such human traits?

Is-it-hot-enough-for-you season will soon be at hand.

War may never be abolished, for men learn only by experience and each new generation believes in force till it experiments.

STOP! STOP!
Out in all locality a new man was in imminent danger of spraining his back thru his frantic efforts to raise a stand of twelve-inch pipe all by himself. The foreman, jealous of his safety record, yelled excitedly, "Hey there, stop! Hey, you, stop! Don't do that! Stop! Can't the Cain keep Whismaster local? Are you trying to dictate a telegram?"

In the old days only one safety pin had to be unfastened to spoil her entire evening.

DON'T PAY INCOME TAX ON SALARIES

Because of the provisions of the Federal constitution, which says that taxes must not be taken from indirect taxes, have been raised from taxes, governmental employees, city and state are exempt from Federal income taxes.

This includes school teachers, policemen, firemen, city employees, elected officers of the city, county or school, appointed officers of the same.

In this county there are approximately 700 school teachers, 4250 policemen and county employees, approximately 100 judges at $10,000 a year, 1000 city employees at $4,000, Register and Recorder at $7,000 per year, fees and salary, approximately at $4,000 county commissioners, three at $3,000 city school superintendent at $7,000, county superintendent at $4,500 and a lot of appointees.

Respectfully in Lawrence County there are about 1200 people who are exempt from Federal income tax—many would be away due to low salaries.

Should there be a state income tax law passed, city, county and state employees would be required to pay this tax.

There are many autists who don't own their own cars but they think they own the streets.

Japan's Plight Affects Europe
Soviet Union Becomes More Secure
Hitler Joins Hands With StalinBy LESLIE EICHEL,
Central Press Columnist

THE DRAIN ON JAPAN in China is beginning to have an effect in Europe. The Soviet Union has become immeasurably more secure. That is not all. Germany realizes the fact. Thus, Great Britain, always trying to maintain a balance of power in Europe favorable to her own interests, may have its greatest difficulty in preventing Germany from joining her interests with Russia's!

That has been a German dream for two centuries. Great Britain usually has prevented such a union. Hitler's anti-Communism trades have been chiefly political. He has tried to turn Europe and Asia against the Soviet Union so as to have a free hand in expanding toward the east. Not that Hitler isn't diametrically opposed to communism or socialism. He is. And the Russians abhor Nazism. But the two nations need each other. It will be recalled that Stalin killed off his army command because it supposed favored joint military-political action with Germany. And, later, merely a few months ago, Hitler purged the Nazi army command because, presumably it favored joint military-political action with the Soviet Union.

In the end, it will prove logical in spite of purges.

Furthermore, German industrialists desire to have a Russian outlet—and what a great field it is! And the Nazis require resource supplies from the Soviet Union.

A union of Germany and Russia would be the most formidable in the history of the world.

BRITAIN'S PUZZLE
Great Britain's Tory leaders have a problem on their hands. They would like to be friendly enough with Germany to prevent her from joining with the Soviet Union; they would like to be friendly enough to get the Nazis to join with the Soviet Union. And Hitler dare not move much farther unless he has assurances from Britain for her remembrance 1914 when Britain jumped in.

DEFLECTED LEADERS
Washington, May 21.
THERE is so much significance in the Pennsylvania primary results that it is not possible to compress it all in the space of a single article. There are at least five distinct effects, analysis of which, with the customary aloof from those whom the returns slipped, will be abundant for quite a while. There has not been a primary in years so pregnant with national interest.

FIRST, there is the effect upon Mr. John L. Lewis; second, the effect upon Senator Guffey; third, the effect upon the Roosevelt Administration; fourth, the effect upon the Republicans; fifth, the effect upon other primaries in which Mr. Roosevelt is involved—notably that between his leader, Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, and Governor Chandler. Perhaps the most spectacular consequences of the result are those suffered by Mr. Lewis. It is not possible to deny that they were heady deflationary.

TO APPRECIATE how heavily it is necessary to understand what victory would have meant to him. Had his ticket won, Mr. Lewis would have been the undisputed boss of the Democratic party in the State. He would have assumed its exclusive ownership and, with Mr. Guffey as his aide, been able to select the seventy-two delegates to the 1940 convention. The election of his candidates would have placed this great State completely under his control. His prestige would have been higher and his power greater than ever attained by a labor leader in America. It is not exaggeration to say that he would have become overnight the most important political figure in America, able with his American Labor Party alliance in New York, to frighten politicians on both sides into acquiescence and subservience.

AS things have turned out, there isn't a pretense left of him as an indispensable political asset. Certainly, whatever dreams of political dictatorship he cherished have been shattered. In addition, the so-called "Labor's Nonpartisan League," which served as Mr. Lewis' political false whiskers in a number of States, has been exhibited as a sham which no one will take seriously in future. Resented of his lack for political power and particularly asked by the $2 campaign assessment, a considerable percentage of Mr. Lewis' C. I. O. following did not follow. The vote in Luzerne and other counties showed he was unable to deliver his own people. Of course, there will be harmony gestures and face-saving moves, but not again will Mr. Lewis be able to inspire the same sort of fear he has in the past—either in the political or the labor world.

AS for Senator Guffey, his sudden transition from the "most powerful political boss in the country" to the lachrymose lieutenant of a loked labor leader, makes him a rather pathetic spectacle. It is a fine demonstration of the humbuggery of politics; a grand exhibition of the false pretense there is about political leadership; a striking illustration of that great political truth—to win, they can fall faster than they climb. So far as the Roosevelt Administration is concerned, the Lewis-Guffey defeat was so clearly a defeat for it that all the joy after the Florida primaries, the significance of which was considerably exaggerated, has now disappeared. The idea that candidates with the Roosevelt blessings are invulnerable has been knocked out.

WHAT NOTED PEOPLE SAY
(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA—Donald Rickberg, who was administrator of N. R. A., sees business picking up: "I think that common sense and the American sense of humor are even now beginning to reassert their power to restore self-confidence."

CHARLESTON—Ernest T. Wain, steel manufacturer, picks a word: "Talk of a recession is ridiculous. This is a depression—serious, deep-rooted and progressive."

LONDON—Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, is asked in the house of commons if he has anything to say about Great Britain's war debt to the United States: "I have no statement to make at the present time."

JERSEY CITY, N. J.—Arthur Garfield Hays, counsel for the American Civil Liberties Union gives his version of free speech: "An American citizen has a right to make a speech on the street any time he feels like it, regardless of what Mayor Hague says."

JUST FOLKS
By EDGAR A. GUEST

JUDAS TREE IN BLOOM
Every spring the Judas tree
Just outside my window pane
Holds its branches out to me.
Filled with blossoms pink again.

Just beyond my reach it stands,
Such a rascally, treacherous thing!
Holding in its slender hands
All the glory of the spring.

Strange, I think, amid such charms
And beneath so fair a sky
Judas to those flower-filled arms
Chose to go alone to die.

Plans Progress For Convention

County Sabbath School Sessions To Be Held Here On June 9 And 10

Plans are progressive for the 100th convention of the Lawrence County Sabbath School Association which is to be held at the Highland United Presbyterian church, New Castle, Thursday and Friday, June 9th and 10th, and this convention will mark the 75th anniversary year. The reason there has been 100 conventions is because for the first twenty-five years, two conventions a year were held. This will be the first two-day convention ever held in the county.

The representative of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association will be the general secretary, Walter E. Myers, and the children's division specialist will be Mrs. A. J. Holman of Bellevue. In connection with the children's division work, Mrs. A. B. Street, the county children's division superintendent, wishes to invite any children's division department of any Lutheran school, to bring any display of materials used and there will be special room for these to be placed at the convention of children's materials, miniature tabernacles, small reproductions of Noah's Ark, etc. These materials should be left at the convention church the evening before the convention opens.

The theme of the convention will be "Fellowship With God" and the convention sermon will be delivered by Rev. A. M. Stump, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church of this city. The song leader will be John W. Owey, and special music is being arranged for the evening services. Friday afternoon, June 10th, will be a rally of the ladies' aid classes of the city and awards will be given to the ladies classes who have the best percentage of attendance. Friday evening the Men's Brotherhood of the Highland United Presbyterian Sunday school have invited the convention to meet with them at the convention session where an inspirational program will be given. Awards will be presented to both city and county Men's Aid classes having the best percentage of attendance. The inspirational speakers for this joint meeting will be announced later, and women are invited as well as men. In fact all members of the family. ## W. P. A. Workers Are Penalized For Political Activity

Three In Allegheny County Are Out Of Jobs As Result Of Hopkins Action

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, May 21.—Three Allegheny county WPA workers were out of their jobs today and eight others were being penalized for political activity in the state primary.

Seven Luzerne county workers also were ordered dismissed for similar reasons.

All this was announced by WPA administrator Harry Hopkins but his report failed to mention the names of any of those affected. In a terse statement, Hopkins merely announced the action was taken following a report by Francis Dryden, who investigated charges that the Democratic party faction headed by U. S. Senator Joseph E. Guffey was coercing WPA workers.

James E. Kesner, Allegheny county WPA director, was absent from his office but his aides said he was merely away from the city. During the campaign, Kesner appeared on the platform with the Guffey candidates at a rally. Anti-Guffey Democrats said this was the purpose of his visit. WPA workers on whose sympathies stood Kesner maintained he was acting as a private individual and his appearance should not be construed as undue political activity.

and weighted the balance of power against the Germans.

Britain, however, did not give up the Soviet Union, either. The British Tories have nothing in common with the "radical" governments, but they are eminently practical.

Britain, therefore, will remain as friendly in a practical sense with the Soviet Union to prevent an alliance with Germany.

In the meantime, the Soviet Union is beginning to feel better over the desertion of herself and Loyalist Spain by Great Britain, who also dictates to debt-ridden France.

Stalin, at an inopportune moment for Britain, might join hands with Hitler and Hitler may move the west instead of the east. "There is no little fear of this in the Netherlands, Belgium, Switzerland.

Then, where would Britain be? In the worst hole since Napoleon's days.

POLITICAL CHANGES

But it is dangerous to venture political guesses.

The trend in England is away from the Tories, toward the Laborites and Socialists.

Japan may go communistic overnight. Who knows?

Belgium is strongly socialistic. Nazism might have reached its peak. Hitler may find himself isolated by socialism, with his own Reich eventually succumbing to it.

As for Italy: In spite of the recent infatuation during Hitler's visit to Mussolini Italy has resumed its role as a partner of Great Britain in controlling the route to Africa, Italy once more is the little brother of the British. It may be sucking its tongue out at Britain, but it is clutching Britain's hand.

Mussolini will not pull Hitler out of a tight place any more. Hitler has too many intentions—such as annexing Austria, without forewarning. Mussolini's one day may help Britain try to put Hitler into his place.

All might have been different if the Japanese militarists had not decided to swallow China. They will force themselves to death.

Renew Appeal In Refugee Relief Fund For China

Conditions Appalling With Great Need For Assistance To War Stricken People

Americans throughout the country have been called upon by Norman H. Davis, National Chairman of the American Red Cross, to assist in raising a fund of $1,000,000 urgently needed in China for refugee relief work.

In a letter addressed to Paul F. Butz, disaster relief committee chairman of the Lawrence County Chapter, Mr. Davis pointed out that the needs in China were tremendous, with conditions appalling. Men, women and children who are innocent victims of conditions there are no more responsible for their plight than if they were suffering from a great natural calamity.

Reports from American consular officials and business men in China detail conditions unbelievable to most Americans, Dr. Davis stated.

Chairman Butz stated today that an effort will be put forth locally to raise the $600 quota assigned to the chapter. It is felt that the cause is worthy of the consideration of Christian men and women who recognize the needs of humanity even though they be in a far off land.

George Washington High Installs New Equipment

Advancement is again shown at George Washington Junior high school, with the installation of modern electrical amplifying equipment in both the school auditorium and a portable outfit for use in the classrooms.

The equipment was purchased from funds raised by plays given by the school students for that purpose. It will be used to enable the entire school assemblage to hear radio programs.

Other uses are for school programs at which times microphones will be used by the students on the stage. Each week it is used in the assembly for news flashes, to supplement the "Junior Citizen," the school paper, which ceased publication when the print department was taken from the school.

In the auditorium, loud radio technicians have installed two loud speakers and two microphones. This equipment is all installed permanently and is almost fool-proof.

The portable outfit which has also been purchased for use at the school may be carried about to any room in the building. This piece of the equipment will be used mainly in the public speaking department. The portable outfit is equipped for reproducing recordings of masters of speech, and the students by listening to these records may cultivate their speech and tones accordingly. The proper use of a microphone will also be a part of the instruction given to students.

Miss Betty Glover is head of the public speaking department of the school and it is in her department that the portable equipment will see the most use.

The machine is equipped with a portable phonograph pick-up, which may be used in the music department of the school for the presentation of music appreciation programs. All of this equipment has been installed by a local concern.

When amplifiers were new, George Washington school had one of the first in this district. This was installed in the auditorium and was used for radio programs. This equipment has been in use until just a few weeks ago when the new and modern system was installed about the building.

Make Plans For Sidewalk Work

Procedure Is Outlined For Property Owners Desiring To Share In Project

Property owners who desire to have sidewalks replaced by the city should apply by telephone or in person at the city engineer's office, city hall, and name the place the improvement is desired and the amount of sidewalk which they desire replaced.

After this has been done they will be asked to sign an application, or agreement, then present it to the city treasurer with the full amount of money the job will cost, the price based at the rate of $0.16 per square foot.

When the receipt is delivered to the city engineer's office the job will be placed on the list.

Work will include the replacement of broken walks now in place. No applications will be accepted for locations where no sidewalk exists.

The price of 16 cents per square foot will include the regular sidewalk, four inches in thickness, and driveways, six inches in thickness. Under the terms of the city-WPA project, no repair work will be done such as lowering or raising slabs, cutting tree roots or repairing portions of broken slabs.

Should downspout drains be found broken or in need of repair, the employees will replace them with new pipe at the cost of material which the owner must provide.

In conjunction with the planes was an exhibit of air mail stamps placed in the library under the direction of the Stamp club. The display enhanced the value of the planes themselves considerably.

The models ranged from very small carved planes to large gas-line models with a four-foot wing span. Those students to whom credit is due for donating their miniature planes are: Harold Woolway, Harold Ramsey, Wilbur Whitman, Walter Koivula, Ed Francis, Donald Kemp, Warren McMillen, Hilja Pikkala, Robert Rappe and Wylie Shira.

Giants Lose As Cubs Win, Lead Shaved

Cincinnati Rookie Puts Skids Under Giants, Cubs Hammer Philly Hurlers

PIRATES FOLD UP TO DODGERS

By Anthony J. Pugliese
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, May 21.—Any doubts the Chicago Cubs may have had as to where they were headed in the National League pennant scramble are rapidly being dispelled today. From a disorganized club, which floundered and stumbled its way along during a recent home stand, the Cubs suddenly have started clawing their way through the East.

The Bruins still are without the services of Dizzy Dean, their $185,000 mound star, who is on the shelf with a lame soup bone Dean's forced absence has tended to keep the Cubs in the doldrums.

Cubs Beat Phils
But even without the Dizzy one-who may test out his finger in about 10 days, the Cubs have restored their mental poise and winning form by knocking off the league leading Giants two straight and show signs of going right on from there.

The Cubs have found their batting eye as evidenced by a 22 hit, 18 to 7 victory over the Phillies yesterday. Stan Hack led the assault on Wallers, Hallahan and Reis with four hits, and Billy Herman and Carl Reynolds followed closely with three apiece. Pinky Whitney homered for the Phils.

Giants Throttled
The Giants saw their lead shaved to three and a half games as Johnny Vander Meer, young lefthander held them to five hits and pitched the Reds to a 4 to 0 shutout victory. It was the second straight blanking for the Giants, giving rise to belief they'll find the going plenty tough from here in Erie.

The Reds went into a tie for fourth with the Pirates who dropped their fourth straight in losing 7 to 5 to the Brooklyn Dodgers. Babe Phelps and Ernie Koy contributed homers to the Dodgers' 12 hit attack on Lucas, Brown, Blanton and Sewell. Van Munking was belted by Tom Presnell in the sixth and was credited with his second win. The Cardinals were rained out in Boston.

Indians Keep Lead
In the American league the Cleveland Indians maintained their one game lead over the Red Sox by thumping the fading Senators 6 to 3. Mel Alameda put the Senators off to an early lead with a first inning homer, but the Indians got fire in the next inning to drive Dutch Leonard from the mound and inflict on the Senators their sixth defeat in the last seven starts. John Stone homered for the Senators as did Earl Averill for the Indians, as Johnny Allen won his fourth game. Schoolboy Rowe fell victim to a Philadelphia upspring in the eighth inning after yielding only four hits and one run and the Athletics beat the Detroit Tigers 5 to 2. Luther Thomas was the winning hurler for the A's.

The Boston Red Sox kept pace with the Indians as Lefty Grove won his seventh straight to top either league and beat the St. Louis Browns 16 to 2. Grove held the Browns to eight and contributed three singles, driving in four Boston runs. Buster Mills hit a four-master for the Browns.

The Yankees were rained out in Chicago.

Elks' Boxing Show Monday

Attendance Will Not Be Confined Strictly To Members Of Elks

PLAN CONVENTION HERE IN AUGUST

Five and possibly six amateur boxing bouts of the slim-bank kind will be staged at 8:30 p.m. Monday in the lodge room at the Elks Club it was announced by Steve Griffith today.

Griffith is the chairman of the Marching committee of the Elks who are getting ready to hold a state convention of Elks here next August.

The boxing show is a lead to get not only members of lodge 69, but also the general public acquainted with plans now shaping nicely for the mammoth celebration.

About two weeks ago several bouts were staged. Punctures galore were exchanged. The amateurs, as usual, did not stall and everyone who was at the fistic show enjoyed the bouts.

The Elks will open their doors to the general public Monday night. In other words, it will not be necessary that one is an Elk to be able to witness the boxing show.

Rambling Around World Of Sports

Dust from the diamond... Frankie Frisch has been dealt another nasty crack on the whiskers... Lon Warnecke is lost to the Gansess Gang, being laid up with a right shin injury... a liner off the bat of Babe Phelps did the trick... the Pittsburgh Pirates set some kind of a mark so far this year, scoring but one run in 23 innings in their series with the Bears... they garnered but eight hits in the same number of cantos... while the technical name for Dizzy Dean's ailment is "inflamed bursitis", quite a few major leaguers believe the Dafferoo is out of condition and nothing else... at least, Wrigley hopes so... from Cleveland way comes this story to our ears... Ken Koltner splashes that ball around like a Bombino, due to the fact that he eats lots of spaghetti... he's of German descent, but goes in for the "spaghetti"... a sort of "it's good enough for DiMig, it's good enough for me."

A tip to Barney Ross... Barney, you want to beat Armstrong next week, don't you? Well, then just get out and straight punch Henry... it takes Hen too much time to get set... the above tip was offered by our amiable friend and sports lover, Bernard Hanlon, who stopped in for a couple of words with the column engineer...

More dope on Ross-Armstrong battle... another note comes in about the coming Ross-Armstrong tussle, which will headline next week's mitt calendar... here it is: Charles Landolt:

The coming fight between Henry Armstrong and Barney Ross, no doubt, will draw an enormous throng, with the odds on Armstrong to knock the welterweight champion from the head of Ross, but I am not so sure that this is as easy as some of the experts think. It is true that Armstrong has been knocking most of his opponents kicking, but, on the other hand, Ross was supposed to be beaten in the "Carnival of Champions" parade by Cernifio Garcia yet, he gave Garcia a boxing lesson. This fellow Garcia, as Ross put it himself, is capable of killing a man with one blow, yet Ross stayed away from him, boxed him beautifully, and using all the ring experience that he has learned in his many fights, won hands down after a shaky start. If Ross can stay away from Henry for the first few rounds, being careful not to let Armstrong get in close, it will mean but one thing. If Ross can keep up a steady pace Henry will be less dangerous at long range, which is Ross's specialty. Ross himself is no powder puff puncher, and should Henry get careless he may find himself sitting in the rosin. Ross is one of the few fighters who do not lose control of their beatings when the going gets tough or is tagged with a punch. All in all, this fight will be one of the best. Those who don't attend should listen in on their radio if they want to hear the best fight of the decade.

Thanks
The Clifton Flat Iron Man.
Headland came home with a medal for his efforts.
John Monsey of New Castle high school on a few of the holes but nevertheless he shot a fine 80 card, but was just outside the charmed zone by a few strokes. Monsey's 80 gave him seventh place in the one-day tourney.

How's this for an ending... A southwestern Colorado S. P. R. R. snowstorm "put out the lights" for a couple of days in a match recently the ring was plunged into pitch darkness when the power failed... Dynamite Jackson and Joe Aguilar were the scrappers... it was the ninth round and the lights went out, places for the officials used matches for light, consulted their notes and awarded Jackson the nod... what, no box?

Puncec May Be New Sensation Of Tennis World

Jugoslavia Banking On 24-Year-Old Tennis Star For Davis Cup

EXPERTS RAVE ABOUT PUNCEC

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, May 21.—Geographically, the place is just another Balkan principality, a sort of plot on the map from the fountain pen of continental politics. Socially, you can wrap it up and leave it in the araway for the man from the Salvation Army. It seems to produce some very desirable night watchmen and they do say that, as a class, its chambermaids are unexcelled.

Nevertheless, I learn today with some bewilderment that Jugoslavia, probably will wind up winning the European zone of the Davis cup series and playing Australia in the inter-zone finals here. Briefly and succinctly within two victories of the cup itself.

Puncec Is Good.
The answer, it appears, is Puncec pronounced Puncec, for short. Not something in the fifth at Suffolk Downs, but the unknown who's soon to take the world of tennis by storm, probably starting at Wimbledon next month. Who says so? I don't. I only work here.

Probably the foremost authority for the above statement is Vincent Richards, the old internationalist of the Tilden era, although Wallace Merriam, editor of American Lawn Tennis, can discuss the point more intimately. He has just returned from the Riviera, where he gazed upon this specimen and, since then, seems to be going about with a slight glow in his eye.

Karel and Jan Kouzel, the professionals, also speak well of the man. They ought to. I understand that he beats them regularly in practice.

NEW YORK, May 21.—Fresh war clouds on the European horizon brought a sizeable reaction in the stock market. The Dow Jones Industrial Average declines through the two preceding sessions, being extended by as much as 10 points.

Foreign developments, which included reports of German troop movements toward the Czechoslovakian border, overshadowed the favorable speech last night by SEC Chairman Douglas at the Conway Committee dinner and bullish Washington news on utilities.

Most of the stocks were independently firm at the opening, but lost gains as the general market continued to slide. Steels, chemicals, motors, coal, tin, rubbers, coppers and farm implements were among the weakest groups.

Do Pont dropped close to 3 points, Allied Chemical about 2 and Union Carbide half as much in chemicals.

Enthusiasm for scouting is a sure thing in Ellowood City as is shown when some twenty three scouts were present for advancement and merit badges as late in the indoor season of scouting. The scout training done indoors is chiefly preparation for the outdoor or as one scout said, "Take the first two letters from Scouting and you have outing" the finished product.

The board has made tentative plans to hold the next review meeting at Camp Thompson, about the end of the camping season. More

WASHINGTON AT A GLANCE

One Liberal Who Continues

Stewart Commends Head Of Newly Revived National Emergency Council

LOWELL MELLETT HAS NOT CHANGED

Central Press Washington Bureau
802 Times-Herald Bldg.
By CHARLES D. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(Lowell Mellett, recently appointed to the executive directorship of the revived National Emergency Council, a New Deal setup, is one of the most interesting characters in Washington.

He is a eyed-in-the-wool newspaperman. I hardly would have supposed that the government service would have much appeal to him. Nevertheless, he has the right background to make him an exceedingly competent official in the position that President Roosevelt selected him for.

He is not, to be sure, of the "brain trust" type. He is too modest for that—has a "passion for anonymity."

However, he has been for years a positive genius as a managing editor, which ought to qualify him for almost any sort of an executive post. He also is a particularly genuine and confirmed liberal. Many liberals grow conservative as they grow older. Lowell never has. Yet he is a very sane kind of a liberal—not an impractical one, but a truly constructive liberal thinker.

IN EARLIER DAYS—I first met Lowell Mellett three and a half decades ago, when I was telegraph editor of an Indianapolis newspaper and he had a reporterial job on another one.

Then I know him in St. Louis.

when again was telegraph editor of a newspaper there and he was a reporter on the same paper. Roy W. Howard, now head of the Scripps-Howard newspaper chain and affiliates, was a copy reader on my telegraph desk. Lowell, my wife and I were boarders in the home of Roy and his mother. Naturally we became quite intimately acquainted in those days.

THEN—Time passed. I returned from a tour of duty in Europe and then in the Orient to find Lowell at the editorial head of a newspaper in Seattle. That, too, was liberal. Maybe it was too much so for its era, for it blew up—had to suspend publication.

By that time I was Washington manager for one of the country's big news services. Lowell became available. I annexed him on my staff. My former subordinate, Roy Howard, had risen to first-class rank in the Scripps-Howard organization. Lowell and I both worked for him. We were "buddies." We stayed fellow liberals.

REMAINED LIBERALS—More time passed. The war was on and I went back to Europe. Lowell succeeded me at Washington. Subsequently I went to South America.

Returning at last I discovered him in editorial charge of the Scripps-Howard Washington daily. That was during the early post-war period. Conservatism was more than predominant. But Lowell stayed liberal, and kept his paper that way.

A CHANGE—This stretched on into the Franklin D. Roosevelt regime. Presently some folk began to allege that the New Deal, while all right as to its objectives, was raising Cain with its methods. Conservatives said so, of course. But so did some extreme liberals.

The Scripps-Howard chain was in this latter group—or so some liberals contended.

Lowell Mellett was one of them. He simply quit a corking good job as editor of his chain's Washington newspaper.

DESERVES APPOINTMENT—After building himself up for a generation it was quite a sacrifice. I think he had that National Emergency Council appointment coming to him.

When women were first employed as reporters on newspapers they were dubbed "thrill girls."

Expect Big Season At Boy Scout Camp

Lengthen Camping Period To Four Weeks At Meeting Of Committee

At a meeting of the Lawrence County Boy Scout Camping Committee, plans were made to lengthen the camp season to four weeks in place of the originally planned three week period.

Reports received by the committee indicated the scouts of the county want to get to Camp John Phillips as soon as possible. Last year's camp, under the direction of Nick Castillo, proved quite a success, and this perhaps accounts for the interest shown this season.

The weekly periods at Camp Phillips will begin on Saturday afternoon and run to the following Saturday morning. One additional day and a half have been added to the camp week for this year, but the camping fee still remains the same.

A great deal of repair work is now under way at the camp. The mess hall will be painted, the canteen shingled. The recreation headquarters will be reinforced and needed repairs made. It is hoped that all of the work will be completed by June 14.

A group of 40 young people from St. John's church, Franklin, Pa., are coming to Camp Phillips on June 14 and will spend eight days in the outdoor camp. This group has visited the camp in previous years.

AROUND CITY HALL

It is not known how many persons have expressed views concerning a new city building to council. However, Mayor Charles E. McGrath and his colleagues have been seeking the opinion of the public relative to such an undertaking. It is believed that should council feel that the public wants such a building, council would buy the old library building and site from the library board and a building suitable for city purposes would occupy the site within the next year. Of course, all is dependent on whether or not the city could secure a grant of 45 per cent of the cost from the government. The city could borrow the remaining 55 per cent at a cost of four per cent from the government or sell bonds at a cost of three per cent or less.

Everybody who has had to use Euclid avenue between North Mercer street and Highland avenue is glad that the work of paving has started. For years motorists complained of "shell holes" in the cartway and parents complained of school pupils being forced to go through mud and water.

New Wilmington Grange To Meet

The Grange met on May 12 at West Lodge, New Wilmington with Leona Buckwalter presiding. Following the business session the Juvenile Grange members presented a fine program in honor of their mothers. The lunch hour was in the form of a pie social.

Their departure is much regretted by their New Castle friends. The rabbi's congregation made every effort to induce him to stay, but the Lexington people were expecting him this week and he found it difficult to alter his plans.
